

Lambda Functions /tmp space

- If your Lambda function needs to download a big file to work...
- If your Lambda function needs disk space to perform operations...
- You can use the /tmp directory
- Max size is 512MB
- The directory content remains when the execution context is frozen, providing transient cache that can be used for multiple invocations (helpful to checkpoint your work)
- For permanent persistence of object (non temporary), use S3